A Note from Your Chronicler

Oh my is it fall or is it spring? The weather can't decide but we have now gone back to regular time EDT. We have new heirs and there are only a few events left in this year. What we can start to look forward to is our traditional Baronial 12th Night and before you know it will be time for our Baronial Birthday, which we hope you all will attend.

Want to help the barony out? Submit your recommendations for awards to the baron sooner than later. Going to Birthday next year? We can always use a little extra help, so let our chatelain know since she is in charge this year.

Looking forward to seeing you all in the coming months.

Yours in Service, Story, and Song,

Greetings from the Baron and Baroness of Bright Hills

all is here in Bright Hills, and November will be a busy month. We plan to be in attendance at Crown Tournament, Irish Festival Demo and 100 Minutes War in East Kingdom.

There is also a Baronial Gathering on Sunday 6 November at the Baltimore Bowman, from 1 till 4 pm. With all the activities and Thanksgiving in November, Baronial Bardic will not happen this month. We will do our next virtual Bardic in December. Please join us for Winter and Holiday stories, songs, poetry. The date will be in the next newsletter.

Plans are in the works for a Baronial 12th Night Celebration, more to come as details are worked out.

A reminder that Baronial Birthday is fast approaching, we ask that the Champions devise a way to select their successors and get that information to the Baron or the autocrat so it can be included in the event flyer.

Award input is needed. We all know of someone that has done great things for the Kingdom or the Barony, please put them in for the recognition that they deserve.

We urge everyone to find ways to support the Barony; there are a few Officer and deputy positions that need filling. If you are interested, please speak with the Seneschal, Mistress Jeanne Tenneur de Bec.

Look for information on the upcoming Polling for Bright Hills Baron and Baroness in this newsletter.

As always, we wish that everyone stays safe. We wish everyone joy and friendship during this month's harvest celebration. Be kind and remember the Bright Hills motto, "Only the best from Bright Hills."

Yours in Service,

Gordon Kinloch and Wanda the Wanderer
Baron and Baroness of Bright Hills

Officer Reports:

ChateLain

Baroness Rebecca von Zweckel (Becky Kepple)

I don't have a whole lot to add myself but it appears my Deputies are pulling over time. Here is a brief description of what Wrade and Barb have been up to:

At TBF Wrade spoke with several folks, one young lady was interested in archery and is now shooting out at the Bowmen. She let us know she was having fun when she spotted us at the recent practice. There were several folks at TBF that Wade and Barb had talked with who showed up and had a grand time. Hopefully we'll see them again soon.

Wade's still working with Michael Fiedler and his fiancée, Jennifer Crouse. They frequently call him for advice on all sorts of things. They have started attending events and are having a good time. They are now paid SCA members. Michael is also working with Heinrich to build his own armor. Jennifer is a potential Youth Minister sometime down the road. Wade, Gordon and Karen spent a fair bit of time with two new ladies at the Oct. practice, answering lots of questions and trying to give them enough information to get them started. One of them is interested in fencing/rapier and has gone to a couple Lochmere practices. She may also have some A & S interests but will need help with garb since she isn't well versed in clothing construction. The other lady seems interested in heavy weapons. There is one more couple who want to get into being active, but luck has not been on their side. Apparently, after planning to go to a recent event they were in an accident and their car was totaled. Wade continues to chat with them via FB.

In addition, Barb is well into handling the upcoming Irish Festival. I look forward to hearing how that is going.

Chronicler

Lady Scholastica Joycors (MyLinda Butterworth)

Yeoman out on time.

Lady Dagny will check on warrant requirement, since she will be stepping up in February.

Exchequer

Lady Clara von Wonsiedel (Michelle England)

Is working on the quarterly report, and waiting for the check from SCARs for the Royal Archery and Trial by Fire event.

Herald

Lord William Ringlancer (Bill Soucy)

I am actively working with three clients on submissions.

Next Baronial Herald Zoom is this Tuesday at 7 PM.

knights Marshall

Sir Kollack von Zweckel (Kenneth Kepple)

I was unable to send in the Quarterly report due to web page issues which still persist. Notified both our Seneschal and our very own Earl Marshal.

We had a heavy practice on October 9th which there were three of us in armor. There were several archers at the archery practice not sure the number, however I did receive 5 consent to participate forms for the non-members.

There is a Northern Atlantia/Southern East Kingdom Joint Melee Practice this Saturday at 20 3rd Ave S, Glen Burnie, MD 21061, the fighting will start at 10:00 AM.

Bright Hills next scheduled heavy practice at the Bowman will be on Sunday November 6th starting at 12:30 PM. The Next scheduled archery practice is also November 6th starting at 1:00 PM.

MoAS

Mistress Deirdre O'Bardon (Debbie Eccles)

My quarterly report was submitted to Kingdom on October 16. It is my understanding that Lady Brigit submitted her warrant request to be deputy MOAS.

A live Bardic was hosted by Lady Brigit Donn on October 15 and was attended by at least 11 people.

Lord William Ringlancer actively worked with 3 clients on heraldic submissions.

Lady Sindara attended an online class on goldwork and taught an online class on the history of beadwork in the Ansteorran University.

Mistress Tatiana made more portfolios and necklaces for largess.

Melissa Joslin and Elizabeth Morgan are trying to start a sewing guild.

Lady Nest was active in A&S in August and September when she took up spinning again, getting really into using removable-whorl spindles. She also spun period-breed wool (Cheviot) on a period-reproduction spindle (pewter whorl based on a find from York), dyeing it with onion skins and alum, and wove her own protégée belt on the inkle loom. I apologize that this information is late, but I wanted to give Lady Nest word fame!

I am always happy to accept and report on any A&S activities reported to me in writing. Emails are wonderful! A&S activities at Trial by Fire and Royal Archery included the cooking competition, an A&S display and a poetry competition. Lady Scholastica won the Grand Champion, Vegetable and Dessert competitions and Lord Svi won the Main Dish competition. Lord William Ringlancer displayed a leather crest for a helm based on a period exemplar, while Lady Sindara displayed her jewelry. The poetry competition had 3 official entries. An additional 2 poems with documentation were submitted later. Lord Tobias Morgan won the poetry won the poetry competition with his sonnet on possibilities. There was bardic Friday and Saturday night as well as a food and archery related challenge on Saturday afternoon. Lady Livi brought her sekunjabin tavern.

Numerous A&S activities occurred at Royal Rabbit Winery including bardic performances by Master Richard Wyn, Lord Llywelyn, and Lærimoðir Deirdre. Fiber Arts were demonstrated. Lord Raven demonstrated kumihimo. Rebekkah displayed embroidery. Melissa hairstyling and headdresses. Lady Sindara demonstrated jewelry making. Lady Livi brought her sekunjabin tavern.

Lord William Ringlancer hosted a virtual heraldry consult on August 23 attended by at least 3 guests and the host.

On August 28 Cooks Guild met to discuss recipes for Trial by Fire. The Cooks Guild met on September 4 to hold a pre-cook.

Lady Scholastica Joycors held another Needles, Fiber, and More online challenge and has continued to read well known medieval stories online.

Lady Brigit Donn offered to be Deputy MoAS. Mistress Tatiana (my current MoAS Deputy) and I agree that this is a good idea so I will ask Lady Brigit to apply for a warrant.

Dame Deirdre noted that she is checking on the need for a warrant for a Deputy MoAS.

Preparing for the Baronial Polling

It has previously been announced that our esteemed Baron and Baroness, Gordon and Wanda, have proclaimed Their intent to step down at the Baronial Birthday event in February.

To that end, we have been soliciting candidates who would be able and willing to step up and be invested as the next Baron and / or Baroness.

We have received Letters of Intent from 2 sets of candidates, and preparations for the polling process are currently underway. At this time, I expect the polling letters to be distributed in late November.

Polling letters will be sent to all members residing within the zip codes that define the Barony of Bright Hills.

Please take this opportunity to check your membership, and confirm that it is in date.

If you have any question about whether you live within the Barony, you can go to the Kingdom website. If you choose to "Find your local group", you can check your zip code. If you are not within the Barony's lands, you can still provide counsel to Their Majesties, by writing a letter to them and expressing your thoughts.

You should also create an account for yourself in the ESP (Polling System) on the Kingdom website. This will allow you to receive your polling letter electronically. The link can be found on the Kingdom of Atlantia's website under "Populace Resources".

As soon as the candidates are announced, we will schedule a virtual "Meet and Greet" to allow those in the Barony to meet the candidates and ask them questions.

In the meantime, if you have any questions, please contact me, or Their Excellencies.

In Service, I am,

Jeanne Jenneer de Bec

Seneschal, Barony of Bright Hills
(Becky Ritterhouse)

CABBAGES IN POTTAGE OR CABBAGE SOUP

Scholastica Joycors

Caboches in potage. Take caboches and quarter them, and seeth them in gode broth with oynouns minced and the whyte of lekes slit and carved small and do thereto saffron and salt and force it with poudre douce.

Curye on Inglisch

Take cabbages and quarter them and seethe them in good broth with minced onions and the whites of leeks sliced and carved small and do thereto saffron and salt and force it with powder douce.

Redaction

- 1 large head of Cabbage
- 2 yellow onion
- 2 leeks
- 4 cups (475ml) beef broth or chicken broth
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon of pepper, optional
- Saffron (optional)
- Salt and powder douce* to taste

For the cabbage, quarter the cabbage, dice the onion and leek. Place all of the ingredients in a pot and bring to a boil on the stove. Reduce to a simmer and cover. Let cook for 25-30 minutes.

*1/8 teaspoon coriander & ground cardamom with a pinch of sugar (option if you don't have powder douce)

The recipe for Caboches in Potage or, as we would understand it today, cabbage soup, was rewritten in the 1780 work The Forme of Cury, A Roll of English Cookery, Complied, about A.D. 1390, by the Master-Cooks of Richard II, Presented afterwards to Queen Elizabeth, by Edward Lord Stafford, and now in the Possession of Gustavus Brander, Esq. Illustrated with Notes, And a copious Index, or Glossary. A rather long title to accompany a fairly simple soup. As the title notes, the recipe was utilized by the cooks of Richard II and was therefore a recipe for royalty or those deemed worthy of dining in a royal court. The use of spices also indicates the dish's upper-status use. Interestingly, the word "Potage," which is clearly of French origin, marks the lasting effects of French culture on English cuisine during the 14th century.

NOTE: The original recipe calls for the cabbage to be quartered, but having the cabbage rough chopped or sliced makes for easier serving.

FINE POWDER, ALSO KNOWN AS SWEET POWDER OR POUÐRE DOUCE

This one spice blends that seems to be prominent in the culinary recipes recorded during the Middle Ages. Although each cook might personalize the blend to his own taste; there appears to be two ingredients that make the blend a "Fine Powder": Sugar and Ginger.

Specie dolce per assay cosse bone e fine.

Le meior specie dolze fine che tu fay se vuoi per lampreda in crosta e per altri boni pessi d'aque dolze che se faga in crosto e per fare bono brodetto e bon sapore. Toi uno quarto de garofali e una onza de bon zenzevvo e toy una onza de cinamo leto e toy arquanto folio e tute queste specie fay pestare insiema caxa como te piaxe, e se ne vo' fare piú, toy le cosse a questa medessima raxone et è meravigliosamente bona.

Translation by Helewyse de Birkestad, OL (Louise Smithson):

Sweet spices, enough for many good and fine things

The best fine sweet spices that you can make, for lamprey pie or for other good fresh water fish that one makes in a pie, and for good broths and sauces. Take a quarter (of an ounce) of cloves, an ounce of good ginger, an ounce of soft (or sweet) cinnamon, and take a quantity (the same amount of?) Indian bay leaves (*) and grind all these spices together how you please. And if you don't want to do more, take these things (spices) in the same ratio (without grinding) and they will be marvelously good.

Redaction:

½ cup powdered ginger
1½ tsp. Grains of Paradise, ground
2 Tbsp. cinnamon (Ceylon), ground
1½ tsp. Cloves, ground
1 Tbsp. sugar

Combine all the ingredients

PERIOD POLITICAL SONGS

by Baron Hrolf Herjolfssen

Bards in the SCA are often criticized for writing verse that is not always 'nice'. I thought that I would include a couple of songs to show how mild we are in comparison to period practice.

This is a filk (yes, they can be period) by an unknown author using the tune of a popular hymn of the time. It celebrates the murder of Edward II's 'favourite' Piers Gaveston by the Barons in 1312. As well as being openly flaunted as the King's lover, he was regarded by many as being the person who actually ran the country. His friends and relations were pushed into positions of power and this was also resented by both the Barons and the commoner people.

DE PETRO DE GAVESTONE

Vexilla regni prodeunt,
fulget cometa comium

Comes dico Lancastriæ
qui domuit indomium

Quo vulneratus pestifer
mucronibus Walensium,

Truncatus est atrociter
in sexto mense mesium

Impleta sunt quæ censuit
auctoritas sublimium

Mors Petri sero patuit, —
regnavit diu nimium

Arbor mala succitur
dum collo Petrus cæditur: —

Sit benedicta framea
quæ Petrum sic aggreditur !

Beata manus jugulans !
beatus jubens jugulam !

Beatum ferrum feriens
quem ferre nollet sæculum !

O crux, quæ pati pateris
hanc miseram miseriam,

Tu nobis omnem subtrahe miseriæ materiam !

Te, summa Deus Trinitas,
oramus prece sedula,

Fautores Petri destruas
et conteras per sæcula ! AMEN

You didn't think that I would leave it untranslated did you?

The banners of the kingdom go forth, the comet of Earls shines, I mean the Earl of Lancaster, who tamed him whom nobody else could tame; whereby the pestiferous one being wounded by the blades of the Welsh, was disgracefully beheaded in the sixth month. What the authority of the powers above has been fulfilled; the death of Peter at last has been effected — he reigned much too long. The bad tree is cut down, when Peter is struck on the neck: — Blessed be the weapon which thus approached Peter! Blessed be the hand which executed him! Blessed the man who ordered the execution! Blessed the steel which struck him whom the world would not bear any longer! O Cross, which allowed to be suffered this wretched misery, do thou take from us all the material of misery. Thee, highest God in Trinity, we pray earnestly, destroy and crush for ever the maintainers of Peter. AMEN

The following is the start of a song written during the reign of Henry III in the early thirteenth century. For reasons of space, I only have the translation (these things are long).

SONG ON THE CORRUPTIONS OF THE TIME

How wide and how long is the web of crimes with which our breasts, choked with vices, are enveloped, tell and reveal. O muse, with a mournful countenance, if you care to touch the heart of the spectator with your lament. The wretched and profane people seem to form their wishes in consideration, not of the price of virtue, but of flax or wool: what is done in the evening is unwrought in the morning. O cares of men! O how much emptiness there is in things! Every eye is blind to justice; every mind is large in injustice; a thousand hopes of men and the differing aspects of things depend on the dice and uses of fortune. When chaste maidens join in dance with the strumpet, when the Arabs play the pauper under the robe of a beggar, when Tydeus denies his faith to his Polynices, then, if you are admitted to the spectacle, my friends, can you restrain your laughter? If you are anxious to know all men by their several failings, who practise sloth, who are the plotters of treason, who are the servants of Mammon, who are the despisers of God, we must observe the manners of every age of life. The boy, as he learns the use of feet, hates the doors, flies abroad; he respects things and honour less than the least; anger and joy succeed each other with short intervals, for the changes are sudden. The youth flies from his tutor and confinement; he delights in horses, dogs, dice and wine, a hunter of his pleasures, whose occupation is with women, a slow provider of useful things, prodigal of money. When arrived at manhood, that he may rule the citizens and dictate to the prætor, that he may extend his possessions with a longer cable, and fill his bags with greater treasure, he seeks riches and friendships and is a slave to honours. (and six more pages)
